

Six Most Important Decisions I Will Ever Make

Life is all about decisions. No matter how big or small, those decisions will affect the direction of my life. However I think, decisions especially important ones must be well thought out otherwise I would have to regret and sorrow will follow. Sometimes, there is no going back on already made decisions and there is no 'fixing' them either. Teenagers are known to make dumb decisions. Fortunately, independent decision making is a part of growing up. However, as a teenager it seems hopeless sometimes and I question if the decisions I have made are the right ones.

After coming to know about the 6 Most Important Decisions You'll Ever Make, I think I have taken a step in the right direction. The main issue these days that I have been facing for so long is of social mirror. I have been making the world happy and doing things that makes the world happy. Now, I have realized the value of a true mirror and living a life which makes me happy. Another major decision I have taken is to avoid PTW (personal time waster). The things or work which are not effective and are wasting my time, I will avoid. Another decision as a teenager I will make is to avoid any kind of drug addiction. Addiction to any drug can cause mental and physical illness and in future I might face a lot of problems.

Another problem I'm facing nowadays is choosing a right friend in life. The world is full of fake friends; I have been facing a lot of difficulty in choosing the right and true friend. If I have a true loyal friend, I can share everything with him and he's not going to betray me.

My parents are one of the most important people in my life and they are my true well wishers, who guide me in the right path. Nowadays, many parents are not aware of the mental illness, the depression and anxiety their children are facing. They are unaware of what their children are facing or being in trouble. I feel, parents should be like friends to their children, listen to them and be there for them all the time and must listen to what problems they are facing.

Name: Shamir Faisal

Section: 2E2

Roll No: 26-02316